

This autumn comes with development opportunities!

As we are used to you, INAQ Consulting is continuing its open online courses this autumn, dedicated to presenting the latest information in the field of IFS standards.

IFS courses start in September 2023, so get ready to enroll!

All courses are held online, in an interactive (LIVE) format, being structured in four sections of 1.5 hours each during a single day.

Who is it for?

The courses are addressed to quality directors, managers and employees from the quality department, those responsible for food safety, internal auditors, staff from other departments (production managers, supply managers), experts from industries serving the food industry (laboratories, packaging, logistics).

What do you win? The ability to improve your processes, quality and food safety. And the company has the opportunity to win new contracts and partnerships and to export safe and quality products.

Stop thinking and take advantage of the opportunity!

Why choose the IFS courses organized by INAQ Consulting?

The courses are given by IFS Management GmbH accredited lecturers;

Course materials are developed by IFS Academy;

Case studies are developed by IFS Academy;

The results of all case studies are in line with the approach to IFS requirements defined by the developers of the IFS standards themselves;

Even in online mode, we keep an optimal number of participants so that the training time allows all participants to communicate and interact with the lecturer. The courses are organized with a maximum number of 10 participants.

We issue IFS Academy/ IFS Training Center diplomas.

On request, all courses can also be organized in-house,
on a mutually agreed date.
For scheduling, send us a message.
